Consulting

Weather technology- and software architecture consulting or project support: we offer competent support by planning and developing your mission critical applications.

Our consultants work closely with you, support you in every step of your project, reveal strengths and weaknesses and evaluate new technologies and their advantages. Apart from our in-house trainings, we offer you consultants, who support you, for instance, regarding your first projects with new technologies to keep time and expenses to an absolute minimum.

Our software consultants thoroughly support you from design to implementation of your individual solution. Apart from designing, your system scalability, expandability and guaranteed future are the most important criteria for us. The system has to grow with your increasing requirements and has to support your work. New and so far unknown requirements to the system should be integrable without entire revision.

Furthermore, you have the possibility to take your software project as a base element of a seminar. This enables us to offer you a special solution for your projects, which is tailored to your particular needs.

Trainings

We offer high-quality advanced trainings in the subjects of Hibernate, JPA, JDO, persistence strategies, SOA, databases and project management. All our events are realized by renowned experts with years of experience obtained in mission critical projects.
